INSPIRING STORIES INSIDE

ROYAL INLAND HOSPITAL
FOUNDATION

Message From The CEO and Board Chair

You, our donors, continue to inspire us with touching stories of how the hospital has impacted your life and why you choose to give back. We have medical professionals and patients who come to us with big dreams and big asks. We are grateful to all of you, who allow us to (often) make those dreams a reality. You enable us to make the seemingly smaller improvements to our hospital, which make a huge impact on patient care.

You have supported our events, which allow us to come together and celebrate our hospital while raising important funds at the same time. These events provide an opportunity for us to express our gratitude to our loyal donors, while also meeting new ones.

You have allowed the healthcare team to implement exciting new research projects right here in Kamloops and undertake research that has never been done at this level before. You've helped to improve cardiac services locally, attracting new cardiologists and building a new Cardiac Care Unit, which is well under construction.

You have directly impacted the lives of patients, like Mike, who recently took his first steps after being told he would likely never walk again, and helped premature babies have access to high-level care close to home.

Your support continues to help us with physician recruitment as we work together with IH Recruitment, the RIH Physician Association and the Regional Hospital District to find ways to attract and welcome new physicians to Kamloops.

And as two large cranes stand tall above our hospital, we look forward to many more exciting improvements to come. We are most grateful to you for your commitment to healthcare in our community. Perhaps Mike, the patient above, says it best: "There will always be patients like me who need access to specialized care. Let's continue to build the best possible hospital right here in Kamloops."

Message From Royal Inland Hospital

There is an air of anticipation and enthusiasm at Royal Inland Hospital as physicians, staff and our community watch as the current hospital expansion begins to take shape.

Community donations to RIH Foundation have contributed to significant projects this year, notably the continued growth of our local cardiac program. This fall will see the opening of a new four-bed Cardiac Care Unit (CCU), which will ensure our sickest cardiac patients receive the specialized care they deserve.

And while expanded services are critical, we never lose sight of what everyone tells us they are most eager to see in a hospital – quality care. In fact, the vision statement voted on externally and internally for Royal Inland Hospital has quality at its core:

"We will achieve excellence in quality care through our commitment to innovation, collaboration, and mutual respect for our patients, families, and communities."

Our Emergency Department team lives that statement daily and was singled out by the health authority earlier this year for their exceptional commitment to improving the quality of care for staff and patients through a number of innovative initiatives.

As well, the RIH Patient Family Advisory Council was honoured with an Interior Health Quality Award for the way it has protected the voices and needs of families and patients in the Intensive Care Unit.

All of these partnerships are an essential part of a strong hospital. This year, hospital leadership spent an incredible two days of relationship building with hands-on learning of the rich Secwepemc culture, giving us an understanding that will better serve the many Aboriginal communities located within the hospital catchment area.

We can say without hesitation that 2019 has been a highly progressive year for Royal Inland. Thank you to all of you who support the Foundation. Your support plays an enormous role in helping this hospital achieve its current successes and those that will follow in future.

Open Mic for Mental Health

On January 28, The Commodore Grand Café and Lounge, along with their Open Mic Monday team, Alexander, Paul, Patrick, and Victor, hosted the first ever #Fight4MentalHealth Open Mic Night. The team approached local businesses to generate donations and prizes to be raffled off at the event. Nearly 30 businesses made generous contributions to the cause.

Over $2,700 was raised for Royal Inland Hospital in just one night, earmarked for mental health programs. Mental health awareness is something the team felt a personal connection to, each of their lives being affected in some way. Planning and hosting this fundraising event was an opportunity for them to demonstrate their support and give back to the staff at RIH who provide 24/7 specialized care for patients—both youth and adults—who are dealing with a wide range of mental health conditions.

A Reason to Give

A gift to your local hospital can simply be an act of generosity or perhaps a way to express gratitude for the care offered to you or a loved one. In cases like the Robinson family, it can also be a way to heal.

For the past two years, Ernesta (Ernie) Robinson and daughter-in-law Ashley Robinson have organized an annual golf tournament in memory of Ernie's late husband Dave, who passed away from cancer in 2017. On July 6, 2019, the 2nd Annual Dave Robinson Memorial Golf Tournament was held at Bighorn Golf Course in Sun Rivers, benefitting the Cancer Clinic at Royal Inland Hospital.

Funds raised at the tournament have been used to purchase two important pieces of equipment that benefit cancer patients at RIH. First, a state-of-the-art vein finder that improves patient comfort by assisting staff in locating appropriate veins quickly for IV access. Most recently, a rhinolaryngoscope was funded to help physicians diagnose cancers of the head and neck with brighter and higher resolution images.

Sun Country Toyota Presents: The 5th Annual Radiothon

In March, the Foundation held the 5th Annual Radiothon at RIH. Presented by Sun Country Toyota and hosted by Stingray Radio, the event raised over $120,000. The day was full of inspiring and emotional on-air interviews on RadioNL, with heartfelt stories from RIH physicians, staff, grateful patients, volunteers and sponsors. Teams of dedicated volunteers fielded incoming calls from donors wishing to make a contribution to RIH, share their experiences and express their gratitude for the care that they or a loved one received. From 6 am to 6 pm, RIH staff stopped in for a chance to win prizes, to share their cherished work experiences, and to make donations.

"This is such an amazing event to be a part of," commented Rob Splane of Sun Country Toyota. "To hear the community's amazing stories of our hospital and its staff is really heartwarming, and I'm proud to be not only a sponsor, but a member of such a supportive community."

The Radiothon's 2019 sponsors included: Alpha-Omega Productions, BCLC, Chances Casino, HUB International Insurance Brokers, KPMG, Petland, RBC and Valley First Credit Union.

Royal Affair – Studio 54

A secret location, animated entertainment, and a dance party like no other - the Foundation's signature event hosted a pop up Studio 54 in downtown Kamloops on June 22.

With over 300 guests, 30 live entertainers, and an out of this world disco DJ, the event brought the guests back to the disco era. Attendees danced the night away, participated in live auctions, were dazzled by talented entertainers and enjoyed amazing food by Terra Restaurant, making this event a night to remember.

The Royal Affair included a live auction with a goal to raise funds to purchase specialized wheelchairs for the Rehabilitation Department at RIH. Not only was this goal met, but with the incredible generosity of guests combined with a matching anonymous gift, it was exceeded by far. Other donations throughout the night contributed to making the Royal Affair a massive success for yet another year.

Many thanks to the incredible sponsors involved, including the Presenting Sponsor Top 40 Woodworks, who went above and beyond by creating a custom bar, custom tables, and more.

The event wouldn't be possible without the hard work and commitment of the Royal Affair committee, who put in countless hours of effort over many months.

This year's committee included: Amy Dixon – Paper Unicorn, Andrea Tombs – Terra Restaurant, Dan Pan – Portfolio Interiors, Dino Bernardo – The Commodore Grand Café and Lounge, Kendel Lavallee - TRU, Nevada Skelley – Top 40 Woodworks, Rona Kovaks – Amazing Inspirations, and Tammy Hunter – Hunter Design.

"We strive to create an event that no one will ever forget. This year was no exception," said Dino Bernardo, who sits on the Foundation's Board of Directors as well as serving on the Royal Affair committee. "It's amazing to see the committee come together to pull off such an amazing event, but it's the generous support of the guests and sponsors that really make this night unforgettable."

Inspiring Grateful Patients

Earlier this year, the Foundation shared the heartfelt story of Mike and his family, whose lives would be forever changed after Mike was severely injured in a car accident on his way to work from Kamloops to Mackenzie. Mike's story is nothing short of remarkable. His injuries were extensive and the likelihood that he would keep his legs or ever walk again was slim. But with exceptional caregivers at Royal Inland Hospital, coupled with fierce determination, Mike is making huge strides. With his fiancée Jes, and young son Ollie, by his side, Mike took his first steps only nine months after the accident.

"To have all the care I need right here in Kamloops has made a world of difference in my treatment and recovery. I am so grateful to the donors who put others ahead of themselves, making sure we have an excellent hospital that is equipped to help patients like me and will keep attracting incredible doctors like my orthopedic surgeon, Dr. MacGregor."

Mike is learning to live with limitations and is working hard to push his body with an eventual goal to continue his passion of biking. The RIH Rehabilitation team is extensively involved in his recovery. He works with a kinesiologist three days a week and was recently equipped with ankle foot orthotics, which have given him a huge shift in his quality of life. The orthotics have profoundly improved his momentum, allowing him to move more comfortably and with greater ease.

In June 2020, Mike will walk down the aisle to meet his bride. While he and Jes never could have anticipated the challenges life has given them, they are forever grateful to the care team at RIH, who give so much of themselves to their patients every day, and to the donors, whose kindness and generosity is felt and appreciated by them. As Mike remarked, "Please continue to give. There will always be patients like me in need of specialized care at RIH. Let's continue to build the best possible hospital right here in Kamloops."

Inspiring Education and Research

Supporting the Next Generation of Nurses

The Nurse Mentorship Program was established in 2016 after staff reported that more support was critical to the success of new graduates working as nurses at RIH. With an increased number of experienced nurses retiring and a large influx of new graduate nurses, medical professionals recognized the need to develop an innovative program to help support and retain new nurses, while also challenging and building leadership capacity amongst more experienced nurses.

This was the first program of its kind in British Columbia, and it has become an example of a strong mentorship program to other hospitals both within and outside of Interior Health. With support from RBC Future Launch, the program has been an even greater success than anticipated, both for mentors and mentees. The positive impact of beginning a career in nursing with sufficient support and mentorship is instrumental in delivering high quality care. The new graduates are more confident and learn more quickly, mentees experience professional growth, staff culture improves, and improved patient care is a critical byproduct of the competence and camaraderie of the nursing staff.

As Dave Maurer, RBC Community Manager Kamloops Market, says, "Through RBC Future Launch, we are proud to help support the next generation of nurses as they begin their careers at Royal Inland Hospital. RBC understands the important role that we play in helping our communities prosper. We also know that there's no better place to start making a difference than close to home, by helping to provide best-in-class access to health programs and services right here in our region." Since 1990, RBC Foundation has generously contributed over $410,000 towards projects at RIH that support patient care excellence.

Innovation Stems from New Local Research

In the last year, Royal Inland Hospital has made exciting progress undertaking innovative local research at a whole new level. Medical professionals and TRU faculty originally came together a year and a half ago to explore potential areas for community-driven research and now, the results of this collaboration are coming to fruition.

"It started with conversations and a clear message that Kamloops wanted to build a research culture," said Andrea Burrows, Regional Practice Leader for Kamloops. "There is a strong appetite for research activities in our community, and we are seeing Interior Health staff reach out to be a part of these projects. They have the questions, and research gives them the opportunity to find innovative and partnering ways to answer these questions and use evidence in their practices."

Currently, RIH healthcare professionals are collaborating with TRU graduate students and faculty on five Health Service Research Projects. An additional project presently underway is within the Pharmacy Department. The project's goal is to improve the transition of care from the acute hospital setting to the community setting by working together with community pharmacists, as they are typically the first contact person for patients after being discharged from the hospital.

Dr. Shaylee Peterson, Clinical Pharmacy Specialist in Cardiology, along with a pharmacy resident (Miranda Hambrook), community pharmacists, and research department members with expertise in qualitative research, are leading the research to improve the continuity of care to patients in the community. Once complete, their findings will both be applied locally as well as submitted for publication to an academic journal as a guideline for other health authorities to follow.

While research has always existed in Kamloops, the opportunity to grow and expand local research initiatives at RIH has never been greater.

Inspiring Auxiliaries to RIH

Hospital Auxiliaries to RIH Pledge $2.5 Million in Five Year Commitment

Pictured: Representatives from the Afternoon Auxiliary to RIH

RIH is incredibly fortunate to have not one, but two, Hospital Auxiliary groups serving the Kamloops area. Over the course of many decades, the Afternoon and Evening Auxiliaries have shown unwavering dedication to their cause and continue to surpass themselves in generosity.

While the groups have always made substantial financial contributions toward RIH Foundation, they have now, for the first time, each made impressive five year pledges that will collectively raise $2.5 million for both current patient care needs and state-of-the-art equipment for the Patient Care Tower, with $1.65 million coming from the Afternoon Auxiliary and $850,000 coming from the Evening Auxiliary.

The Afternoon Auxiliary to RIH was established in 1899 by the wives of doctors who had a clear vision that continues to this day: "Our mission is to provide special patient care equipment for Royal Inland Hospital". This is accomplished through the tireless service of over 160 volunteers in Kamloops - women and men, ranging from retirees to students, who have made the purchase of beds, stretchers, bone density machines, holter monitor systems, scopes, surgical equipment, furniture, and much more possible.

Currently, two key members of the Afternoon Auxiliary to the Royal Inland Hospital are President Lynn Littlejohns and Secretary Kathie Ayotte. "It takes a lot of work to make these kinds of goals happen", says Littlejohns. "We pledge for the equipment according to the needs of the hospital and then fundraise to the pledge. Our goal is to always meet the commitments we made for the care that people deserve."

This ambitious and dedicated group plan to accomplish their $1.65 million pledge by continuing to successfully fundraise through the Victoria Street Thrift Seller, the RIH gift store and mobile carts, and their unique vendor program which partners with home-based businesses who donate back 15% of their earnings.

Both Littlejohns and Ayotte are excited about the possibilities for fundraising that will come with the new Patient Care Tower. "We're very hopeful that when the new building is complete, we will have an improved location for the gift shop and vendor program that will generate more traffic and continue to build on the successful fundraising efforts of both Auxiliaries," says Littlejohns.

The Evening Auxiliary, which is currently manned by 20 close-knit volunteers, was established in 1962 by a group of women who also wished to give back. "(They) were a younger group of women who worked outside the home or had babies and wanted to form an association but couldn't meet in the afternoon - so they started meeting in the evening", explains Jenny

Quince, who is currently serving in her 12th year as President of the Evening Auxiliary.

"The vision was to assist in purchasing equipment, or whatever was needed to support RIH, with an affinity toward delivery, as a lot of members were young mothers." And with that stalwart vision, the Evening Auxiliary has used ingenuity and forward-thinking to generate the funds that have allowed them to contribute both state-of-the-art equipment and, in Quince's words, "the little stuff that makes a big difference."

Whether it has been x-ray machines, birthing beds, bladder scans, vital signs monitors, scopes or anything between, Quince says, "the Auxiliary is proud of any contribution we make. It doesn't have to be big or glamorous, but each year we do something for labour and delivery; that's our passion." She adds, "in the new tower you'll see our largest contribution in the labour suites and we're really excited about it."

The Evening Auxiliary has pledged $850,000 to RIH Foundation over the next five years. The group plans to generate those funds through continuing innovative contract work like leasing the on-site coffee shop, vending machines and in-room TVs at RIH as well as their annual Craft-a-Fair, which is the largest craft fair in British Columbia and a massive undertaking for the volunteers who always welcome additional helping hands for the event.

Quince, like Littlejohns and Ayotte, also adds that a lot of the value in the job also comes from the extraordinary group that she serves with and speaks of their compassionate hearts, loyal commitment and endless fun. "What you get out of working with the other people involved is truly indescribable."

In addition to providing medical equipment for the hospital, both Auxiliaries are also proud of their partnerships with students in our community. Whether they are applying in the Fall to volunteer (which benefits resumes/applications) or are entering the medical field and take advantage of the Auxiliaries' annual bursary opportunities, the partnership is mutually beneficial.

Both organizations expressed their eagerness and gratitude to continue working in thriving partnerships to meet their collective $2.5 million commitment and ensure that RIH is known for its exceptional standards of equipment, care and patient comfort.

It is with deep gratitude on behalf of both themselves and the community that RIH Foundation offers their thanks and appreciation to this army of mighty volunteers who will leave a legacy of love and service that will endure for many more decades to come.

Inspiring a Lasting Legacy at RIH

One of the many lessons that Claire and Albert Muzzillo taught their four children while raising their family in Kamloops was the importance of giving back to the community. In particular, Claire and Albert believed in supporting their local hospital and always made a point of donating to Royal Inland Hospital whenever they had the opportunity during their many years together. They were grateful for the local access to quality healthcare that was offered at RIH - it was where their children were all born and where they knew they could turn to for medical care anytime it was needed.

In 1929, Claire Muzzillo moved to Kamloops with her family at the age of three. Little did she know that her future husband, Albert, lived just down the street. They went to school together at St. Ann's Academy and were married in 1948. During this time, Albert began working in sales for the local GM dealership, Syd Smith Ltd. and travelled extensively in this role. In 1970, Albert and his colleague, Roger Schreiner, purchased the dealership from the Smith family and later changed the name to Smith Chevrolet. In 1982, the dealership was moved from downtown (Victoria and 5th Avenue) to its current location in Sahali. Albert and Roger eventually sold the business to their sons, Anthony and Michael, who still run the dealership today.

After his retirement, Albert and Claire continued to enjoy travelling together and celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in 1998 surrounded by family and friends. Albert passed away in November, 2000 and Claire lived another 18 years until her passing in 2018 at the age of 92.

Anthony Muzzillo recounts how his parents always placed special emphasis on supporting their community and particularly their church, education and health care. "RIH was always a big part of their lives. My parents always gave back to the hospital because they understood how important it was to keep health care strong in Kamloops."

Along with giving generously throughout their lifetime, the Muzzillos also demonstrated their care for the community by donating to several local charities through their estate planning. A bequest in Claire's will was made to Royal Inland Hospital Foundation which will support the future Patient Care Tower currently under construction at RIH.

The Muzzillo family's legacy gift to the hospital will help ensure the continued success of RIH, where their children, grandchildren and great grandchildren will have access to compassionate, world class healthcare for years to come.

A legacy gift to RIH Foundation can take many forms and usually provides your estate with tax savings that may offset a significant portion of the charitable gift itself. Along with a bequest in a will, the Foundation can also be the named beneficiary of a TFSA, RRIF or life insurance policy. Please contact the Foundation or a professional advisor if you would like to learn more about supporting RIH in your estate planning.

Inspiring Gift from Local Business

Already well known for his philanthropic contributions in Kamloops, Ralph Warner recently committed $500,000 to the Foundation through his business Warner Rentals.

Although Warner Rentals is regularly associated with generosity and community support in Kamloops, this substantial gift benefitting the coming expansion at RIH is the local business's largest gift to the hospital to date.

"Warner Rentals isn't the biggest company in the city, but we try to support anything that benefits health," says Warner, who also volunteers with the Foundation. "My children were born (at RIH), my mom fought cancer there...it's the heartbeat of our city and we have to make it better. We have a massive opportunity with this new tower and we have to do our best for the care of future generations."

Warner Rentals was established in 1975 by Warner's father who opened the current location on East Athabaska St in 1980 and eventually opened additional locations in both Salmon Arm and Princeton. Built on a tradition of high quality rental equipment and superior customer service, Warner Rentals has become the largest independent equipment rental company in Kamloops.

Giving back to the community has always been a cornerstone of the operation and whether it's been through his annual charity golf tournament, sponsoring sporting events for children with special needs or supporting Toys for Kids, the Chris Rose Centre for Autism, 4H, People in Motion or many other deserving organizations, Warner Rentals believes that the true value of a local business is its ability to give back.

"I'm proud to be from Kamloops and Warner Rentals loves our city," says Warner. "We're grateful for Kamloops and we appreciate and value being part of this community. We work hard and make intentional decisions in order to benefit this community, and that's what this $500,000 donation to RIH Foundation is all about."

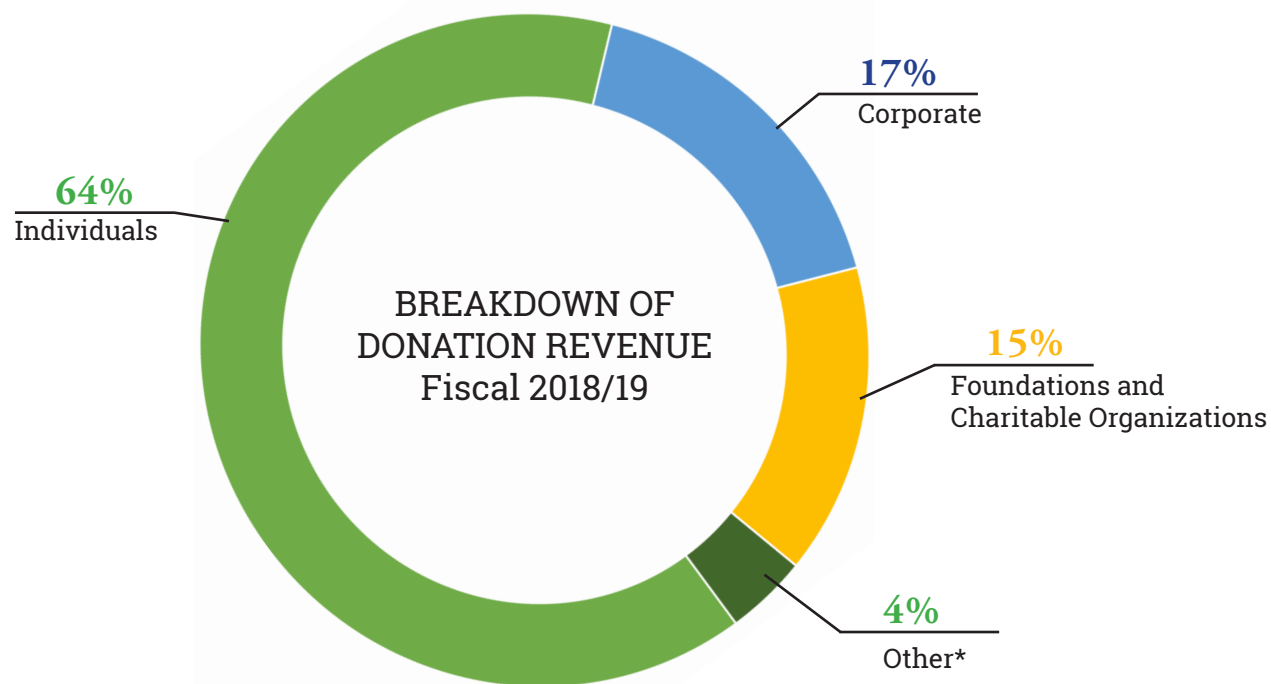

Recently, two long-time employees of Warner Rentals have become managing partners with partial ownership in order to allow Ralph Warner to transition into retirement, but Warner anticipates that the generosity consistently displayed by Warner Rentals in the community, and specifically toward RIH, will remain the same.

"It's our hospital and we all use it; I've spent my time there and so have my employees. The hospital has always been so good to us. People know that when they are in need they can go there and will be safe and taken care of."

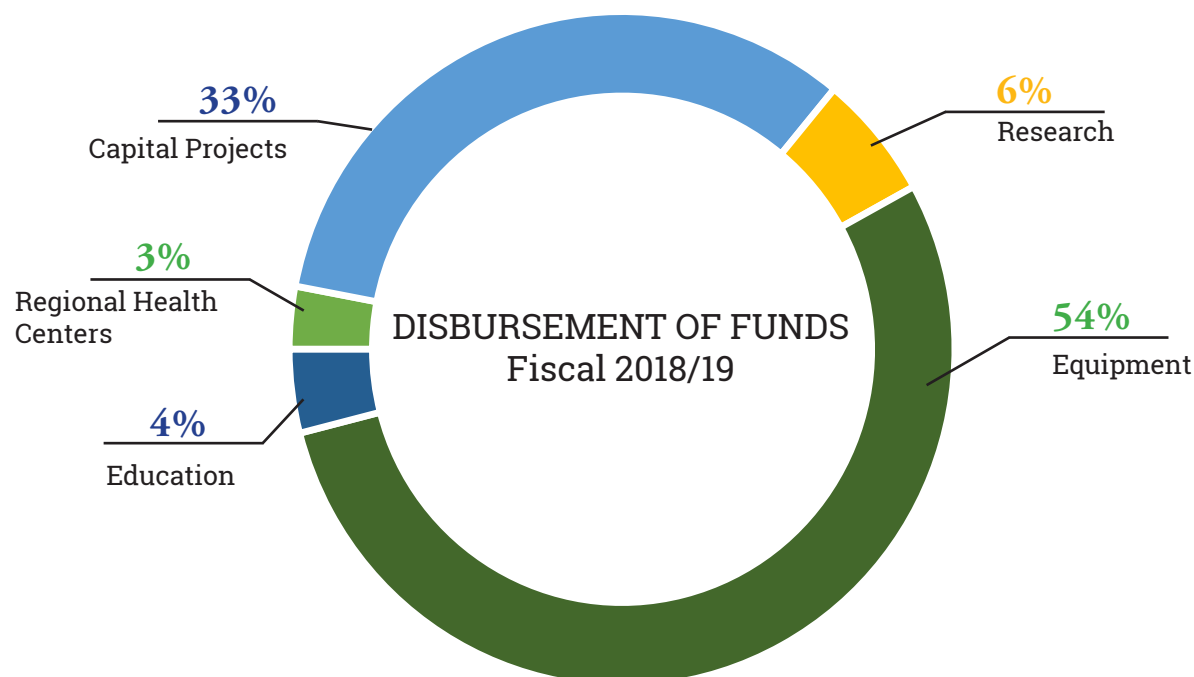

Warner predicts that there will be more funding coming through Warner Rentals as the new patient care tower expansion comes to fruition and looks forward to seeing how the continued legacy of generosity that Warner Rentals has so intentionally built will further benefit Kamloops in the future.
